

Todd Crow

Princeton, NJ | <https://crowbell.design> | todd@crowbell.design | 609-613-6767

Inquisitive and Engaged ▪ Always Helpful ▪ Communicative and Outgoing

Let's talk!

I'm excited to apply for the Senior Product Manager, Marketing Technology position.

With 10+ years leading marketing technology initiatives, I bring the strategic thinking, cross-functional leadership, and platform expertise this role demands. At Rakuten Rewards and ShopStyle, I led teams through complex platform migrations, built scalable systems across multiple business units, and translated business needs into technical roadmaps that delivered on time.

Here's what I've done that maps directly to your needs:

Platform Strategy & Integration Leadership

I led the MessageGears-to-Iterable migration for two business units by conducting stakeholder interviews with marketing and engineering teams, analyzing technical requirements, consulting with vendors, and building a comprehensive migration roadmap. The result? An on-time delivery that reduced redundant campaigns by 30%. I've managed journey orchestrations, marketing automation workflows, and composable template systems that cut development time by 67%.

Cross-Functional Collaboration & Governance

As the de-facto email program lead at ShopStyle, I planned sprints, managed backlogs, and served as the technical bridge between marketing, product, and platform teams. When a product director needed deeper insights into our marketing strategy, I stepped in to provide the data analysis and visualizations that made the case. I built documentation standards adopted organization-wide and delivered training to teams across the company.

Data-Driven Optimization & Stakeholder Communication

I tracked performance across 17 campaigns monthly, conducted A/B tests with statistical rigor, and co-authored a 50-page "State of the Email Program" presentation for leadership. I write SQL for audience segmentation, translate complex analytics into executive-facing insights, and use data to drive prioritization decisions.

Leadership Beyond the Role

As Vice President of RakAbility (Rakuten's disability advocacy ERG), I coached members into leadership positions, managed a $30k budget, presented to C-suite, and delivered panels on accessibility and inclusion. I mentored three marketing interns at VoxSnap, aligning their goals with business outcomes.

I'm a people-focused product leader who eliminates ambiguity, builds trust across teams, and delivers results. I'd love to bring that approach to your marketing technology initiatives.

Let's connect—I'm happy to discuss how my experience aligns with your team's goals.

Best,

Todd Crow

<https://crowbell.design>